The Annual Survey is open now through April 13. This important survey helps RRSS understand what matters most to our families, students, and staff, including teaching and learning, educational and social experiences on campus (school climate), student success, and parent and family engagement. It also helps us determine where the school directs resources and funding.

Survey topics include, but are not limited to:

- Teaching and Learning
- Social and Educational Experiences (School Climate)
- College and Career Readiness
- Homework Policies
- Student Discipline
- Mental Health
- Bullying Prevention and Intervention
- Parent and Family Engagement
- And more!

The Annual Survey is available in multiple languages, and responses are anonymous. It only takes a few minutes to complete the survey.

Why Your Feedback Matters

Student, Staff, and Parent/Guardian-Centered Decision Making: RRSS is committed to making decisions that reflect the needs and expectations of the RRSS community. By participating in the Annual Survey, you have a direct voice in the planning and funding of the school's goals and priorities.

Transparency and Accountability

This interactive process helps RRSS identify annual goals, take action on them, and measure progress in academic achievement, school climate, and parent and family engagement as part of the school's 3-year planning process. It allows us to align our budget and educational goals while being accountable to our community.

Improved Student Outcomes

By understanding your concerns and priorities, we can make more informed decisions that lead to improved student outcomes. Your input helps us identify the areas critical to delivering the highest-quality educational experience we can envision for students.

How We Use Your Feedback

Schools use survey responses to meet community needs. The RRSS Board of Directors, the leadership team, and staff also review and use them to continually improve how we serve students and families.

We Want to Hear Your Voice

By taking a few minutes to participate, you can help us shape the educational experiences of current and future generations of RRSS students. Your voice matters, and we are committed to listening to what is important to you!
